NATIONAL HELLENIC RESEARCH FOUNDATION
INSTITUTE OF HISTORICAL RESEARCH
Modern Greek Library 1

MAPPING SETTLEMENT DESERTION IN SOUTHEASTERN EUROPE FROM ANTIQUITY TO THE MODERN ERA

Edited by Vyron Antoniadis, Michael Festas, Anastasia G. Yangaki

Mapping Settlement Desertion in Southeastern Europe from Antiquity to the Modern Era

Modern Greek Library 1

Edited by: Vyron Antoniadis, Michael Festas, Anastasia G. Yangaki

Word processing-layout, cover design: Constantina Simonetatou

@ 2025, INSTITUTE OF HISTORICAL RESEARCH NATIONAL HELLENIC RESEARCH FOUNDATION

48 Vassileos Constantinou Ave., 116 35 Athens

Tel: (+30) 210 72 73 554

e-mail: iie@eie.gr

Distribution: National Hellenic Research Foundation

48 Vassileos Constantinou Ave.

GR-116 35 Athens, Greece

Also distributed by:

https://history-bookstore.eie.gr/en

NATIONAL HELLENIC RESEARCH FOUNDATION INSTITUTE OF HISTORICAL RESEARCH SECTION OF NEOHELLENIC RESEARCH

Modern Greek Library 1

Mapping Settlement Desertion in Southeastern Europe from Antiquity to the Modern Era

Edited by Vyron Antoniadis, Michael Festas, Anastasia G. Yangaki

CONTENTS

Foreword9
Introduction
Acknowledgments
Anna Michailidou, The Bronze Age Desertion of Akrotiri, Thera: An Abandoned Island Landscape
Charikleia Papageorgiadou, "Tragic History" and Coin Evidence: The Fates of Corinth and Delos
Sophia Zoumbaki, The Role of Climatic and Natural Phenomena in the Desertions of Olympia
Vyron Antoniadis, Abandoned by the Deceased: Exploring the Implications of Cemetery Destruction on Ancient Delos
Effie F. Athanassopoulos, Landscape Archaeology and Settlement Desertion: A Multidisciplinary Approach
Athanasios K. Vionis, Historical Archaeology and Approaches to Settlement 'Abandonment' in Greece and Cyprus
Eleni Gkadolou, Spatial Patterns of Settlements During and After the Greek Revolution: Modelling Historical Data Through Georeferencing
Dimitris Dimitropoulos, The War's Effect on Settlements: The Example of Monemvasia During the Greek Revolution
Michael Festas, Contextualising Settlement Desertion Patterns: Case Studies from the Peloponnese, Southwest Greece 19th-20th Century
John Bintliff, Settlement Desertion in Greece: A Long-term Perspective. The Evidence from the Boeotia Project
Index of Place Names

FOREWORD

The collective volume primarily comprises revised versions of presentations delivered at the International Digital Conference "Mapping Settlement Desertion in Southeastern Europe from Antiquity to the Modern Era", organised by the Institute of Historical Research of the National Hellenic Research Foundation (IHR/NHRF) on 3–4 April 2021. The conference organising-scientific committee included IHR researchers Maria Christina Chatziioannou, then IHR director, along with Vyron Antoniadis, Dimitris Dimitropoulos, Michael Festas, Charikleia Papageorgiadou, Anastasia G. Yangaki and Sophia Zoumbaki.

The conference was held as part of the research programme "Mapping the Deserted Settlements in the Peloponnese, SW Greece, 18th–20th Centuries" (MIS 5048460), conducted between 2020 and 2021. The research was carried out under the programme "Historical Study of Settlements in Greece (15th–20th Centuries)", within the Section of Neohellenic Research at the IHR. The project was co-financed by Greece and the European Union (European Social Fund–ESF) through the Operational Programme "Human Resources Development, Education and Lifelong Learning 2014–2020". The research team comprised Michael Festas (project coordinator), PhD in Modern Greek History from the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens; Anna Athanasouli, PhD candidate in Modern Greek History at the University of Crete; and Dimitris Dimitropoulos, the project's scientific supervisor and Research Director at the IHR.

The conference aimed to refine interdisciplinary approaches to settlement desertion by integrating historical, archaeological, environmental and digital methodologies. Discussions emphasised the need to examine abandonment not as an isolated event but as part of broader historical processes influenced by economic, environmental and political changes. A key theme that emerged was the fluidity between settlement desertion and transformation, as many sites later witnessed reoccupation or repurposing.

This volume also marks the launch of a new academic series, the Modern Greek Library, which is published by the Section of Neohellenic Research at the IHR. The series aims to foster scholarly dialogue and advance research on various aspects of Modern Greek history, society and culture.